What is a kurkure production line

A kurkure production line is a type of manufacturing line used to produce kurkure. Kurkure is a type of snack that is popular in many parts of the world. The production line typically consists of several different stages, each of which is responsible for specific steps in the production process.

The first stage of the production line is the pre-cooking stage. This stage involves cooking the dough mixture into a soft and pliable form. The second stage is the kneading stage. In this stage, the dough is kneaded until it becomes smooth and elastic. The third stage is the rolling stage. In this stage, the dough is rolled out into sheets and then cut into desired shapes. The fourth stage is the baking stage. In this stage, the kurkure are baked until they turn golden brown.
